Re:Action4Inclusion: Youth Creating Change

Re:Action4Inclusion (R4I) is an Ontario-based, youth-led social justice movement that aims to empower youth to take action individually and collectively to make their schools and communities more inclusive spaces for youth with intellectual disabilities. Led by a Provincial Youth Advisory Committee (YAC), this movement seeks to change the Canadian narrative of disability and reframe the meaning of community to create spaces where everyone is valued and belongs. R4I encourages youth from across Ontario to take a stand and dispel negative stereotypes about people who have an intellectual disability.

R4I is one of the many advocacy initiatives supported by Community Living Ontario (CLO), a non-profit provincial association that advocates with people with intellectual disabilities and their families. Over the past 17 years, R4I has worked with over 50,000 youth through various opportunities for youth to spark conversations and create more inclusive communities for people of all abilities.

Calling All Changemakers

Do you have an idea to make a difference?

The Community Action Projects (CAP) initiative offers youth (ages 14-29) a pathway from education to action by encouraging them to play a role in shifting attitudes within their schools and communities. These projects provide the space for youth to creatively address inclusion, channel their passions, and develop a local project that feeds into the province-wide Re:Action4Inclusion youth movement.
